

Radon probability map for Oakland County, Michigan. On the map, light green areas have higher probability of readings exceeding the guidelines, dark green area a lower probability and yellow areas and light yellow areas can go either way. The different shades of yellow and green represent different probability levels